Assisi: Home of St. Francis. Color. 50 mins. G. Video Released Nov. 2004. Author Janson Media. In this unique film, viewers are given a guided tour of the town of Assisi by Saint Francis himself. St. Francis?s "narration" is rendered by Christopher Jones.Francis was born in the late 12th Century, the son of a rich merchant. He was raised as a young Assisian nobleman, but grew dissatisfied with his life, and in his twenties he publicly renounced his father's wealth and turned to prayer and service to the poor. Francis began to live as a hermit and preached the necessity of a poor, simple lifestyle based on the ideals of the Gospels. Later in life he received the Stigmata, and composed his famous poem, the Canticle of Brother Sun. He died on October 3, 1226 and was canonized in 1228 by Pope Gregory IX.The tour visits all the sites in Assisi that played a significant role in the life of Saint Francis. Balsa Wood Model Bridges. (1995). Construction. 19 mins. This video is an informative & exciting look at the basics of engineering. One of the best ways to learn how something works is to examine it when it didn't work & discuss why it failed. This idea is demonstrated by a secondary school class that builds models of bridges from balsa wood. The forces that work against real structures, such as live loads, people & cars, dead loads, the weight of the structure itself & stress from weather, are simulated in the classroom. They learn many different stresses that structures endure & how to control these stresses with structural design. An examination of various bridge structures, like a beam bridge, an arch bridge & a tension bridge, illustrates which designs are most appropriate for specific stresses. The best model bridges are determined when they are tested for their strength against the forces. A must for those interested in design & engineering. Shopware Educational Systems. VHS. Be Good, Smile Pretty: A Daughter's Journey to Know Her Father 30 Years after His Death in Vietnam. Video Released May 2003. Author Tracy Tragos. Created by Tracy Tragos. Produced by Tracy Tragos, KCPT Staff. All she had were stories and a few pictures of him holding her when she was three months old. Tracy's father, Lt. Donald G. Droz, was killed in Vietnam shortly after those pictures were taken. His Navy patrol boat was ambused on his first day back from that brief vacation with Tracy and her mother. Thirty two years later, she stumbled upon some information that would change her life. In March of 2001, she was taking a break from work and entered his name into her computer, as she had done many times before. A new item she had never seen before appeared on her screen titled "Death of the 43." The account came from a cruise journal written by Peter Upton. It read like a play-by-play of how her father's boat was ambushed by the Viet Cong. "This discovery propelled me on a journey to learn who my father was and how he lived," Targos said.Tracy's struggle to learn about her father has been captured in a first-person documentary co-produced by KCPT. The title, "Be Good, Smile Pretty," comes from the phrase he sometimes used in letters to her mother."Be Good, Smile Pretty," artfully demonstrates the pain of loss, the joy of discovery and the solace of memory. Beckmann. Art-Appreciation And Criticism. Color. 25 mins. (Modern Art & Modernism: Manet to Pollock Ser.). Age: 18-UP. Directed by Tony Coe. Hosted by Gill Perry. How far should we trust an artist's own statements about his work? When Beckman wrote about his work he stressed the spiritual role of the artist & his position as solitary genius, unconcerned with public events; & the triptych "Temptation," finished in 1937, can be seen as consistent with this view, but an examination of his earlier work, "Departure," finished in 1933, certainly seems to show that it was intended as a comment on the political & cultural situation in Germany at the time, however hard Beckmann tried to reinterpret it later. Bethlehem Year Zero. Color. 90 mins. mins. Video Released May 2004. The birth of Jesus and surrounding events as TV news would cover it today.A mad tyrant Herod, a turbulent and restless people under Roman occupation, mass executions-all are under the shadow of the greatest astronomical event in 800 years, at a time when astrology was the cutting edge of political science. Here is a program that sheds new light on the events and circumstances surrounding the birth of Jesus. This is no nativity-play treatment of Christ?s birth, but an attempt to set it in the real political and social context of the time, based on the best available sources and research.The program is presented in a news format as if the events surrounding Christ?s birth were happening now. The incidents are reported by on-the-scene correspondents and political analysts, just as television presents world news today. The reports discuss the threat to Herod?s succession and the danger to him if he fails to control this province. The report on the tax censua discloses the fiscal oppression of the people. Also documented is the instability caused by putting a whole country on the move at a time when gatherings of more than three people could be seen as subversive.This enlightening presentation provides a greater understanding and new appreciation of the world into which Jesus was born. Beyond the Dream: The Story of the Polynesian Cultural Center. B&W. NR. Video Released Jul. 2004. Revised by Marcie Brown. Beyond the Dream, The STory of the Polynesian Cultural Center. When the Polynesian Cultural Center opened in 1963 onthe remote north shore of Oaho critics believed the location alone would guarantee its failure. Now, forty years and thirty-million visitors later, it is the most popular paid tourist attraction in all of Hawaii. The story of the POlynesia Cultural Center is a tribute to the faith, vision and sacrifice of those who buildt it, and also the spirit of the international brotherhood that keeps it going. Visiting the Cultural Center is like stepping into a rich and colorful history book where the cultures of Polynesia come alive through authentic village structures, demonstrations, traditional foods and a dazzling stage show. But the Center also reaches beyond the cultures of Polynesia. It is staffed primarily by university students who attend nearby BYU-Hawaii and part of the Center's mission is to provide support for students through employment and scholarships. Since the Center opened, more thatn 13,000 students have danced, demonstrated, and served their way through school by working at the Polynesian Cultural Center. In his dedicatory speech in 1963, President Hugh B. Brown said that the POlynesian Cultural Center would bring together the races of the world int he spirit of true brotherhood. That vision is very much alive today and is mooeled by the Center's multicultural employees who represent more than seventy different countries and by the visitors who come from literally all over the world to experience this unique slice of Polynesia. The Big Animal. Orig. Title: Duze Zwierze. (2000). B&W. 72 mins. Age: 12-UP. Broadcast, Cable, Home, Public performance. NR. Video Released Sep. 2006. Directed by Jerzy Stuhr. Screenplay by Krzysztof Kieslowski. The Big Animal scripted by the late Krzysztof Kieslowski (The Decalogue, Three Colors Trilogy) and shot in shimmering black-and-white by Pawel Edelman (the Academy Award?-nominated cinematographer for Roman Polanski's The Pianist) is an inspiring film celebrating the most beautiful human themes: love, friendship and sacrifice.The film's director (and longtime Kieslowski actor) Jerzy Stuhr stars as Zygmunt Sawicki, an ordinary bank clerk in a small Polish town, who awakens one morning to discover a camel outside his kitchen window. As he and his wife (Anna Dymna) grow increasingly fond of the remarkable animal, their new pet evokes their neighbors' jealousy and greed. Although the Sawickis are determined to protect and cherish their large friend, townspeople and local bureaucrats seem bent on exploiting the great beast. Soon, even the Sawickis' love for their camel is powerless to defend it from the intolerance of the narrow-minded community. Stuhr's remarkable direction of Kieslowski's script turned out to be a delightful fairy tale for grownups - a wise and cautionary parable about tolerance. The Big Animal is a funny, humanely compassionate and ultimately heartwarming experience. Milestone Film & Video. DVD. (ISBN: 978-1-933920-03-0(3)) $29.95.
